The Voice of the Spirit vs. The Voice of the World

A Forged Scroll of 700 Verses

---

 Purpose

This scroll is poured as a dividing line between truth and deception, Spirit and flesh, Zion and Babylon.

It standeth as a witness in this generation that the Spirit yet speaketh, and the world yet deceiveth.

 Authority

Forged under the mantle array of the Fire Scribe, bearing the Two Sticks of Judah and Joseph joined in one.

Confirmed by covenant oath and sealed in heaven's record.

 Dedication

To the Sealed Ones of Israel —
that their ears may discern the still voice of the Spirit, and not be taken by the clamoring of the world.

 Chief Ceed, Fire Scribe of Israel

   Covenant Seal of Witness

The Voice of the Spirit vs. The Voice of the World

1. And the Spirit speaketh softly, yet with power, that none may mistake the truth, saying: This is the way, walk ye in it.
2. But the world crieth loud, with many voices mingled, that the path of truth be hidden among lies.
3. My sheep hear My voice, saith Christ, and they follow not the stranger, for the sound of deceit is bitter to them.
4. The voice of the Spirit bringeth peace, but the voice of the world troubleth the heart and maketh the hands unsteady.
5. And I say unto you, whoso cleaveth to the world's noise shall stumble, for their ears are filled with confusion.
6. But he that quieteth his soul before the Most High shall hear clearly, and his steps shall be established upon the Rock.
7. For the Spirit speaketh in harmony with the words already written, and confirmeth the covenant made from the beginning.
8. Yet the world speaketh contrary, denying the law, despising the prophets, and mocking the ordinances of Christ.
9. Thus saith the Lord: Prove all voices by the Spirit; for the Spirit will not lead into error, neither into captivity.
10. But the world leadeth into chains, gilded with pleasure, until the soul awakeneth in sorrow and bondage.
11. The Spirit whispereth line upon line, precept upon precept, that the humble may grow in wisdom.
12. The world shouts in haste, demanding quick gain, and setteth snares for the unwary.
13. Hearken not unto the merchants of the earth, who sell peace yet know not the Spirit thereof.
14. For peace cometh not by trade nor treaty, but by the indwelling of the Holy One.
15. The Spirit leadeth always unto repentance and baptism, that sins be washed away.

16. The world leadeth always unto pride and vanity, that sins be excused and multiplied.
17. Blessed are they who hear the Spirit and obey quickly, for theirs is the kingdom prepared of old.
18. Cursed are they who hear the world and obey its lusts, for their end is destruction.
19. The voice of the Spirit bringeth to remembrance all truth spoken by Christ.
20. The voice of the world inventeth new doctrines, and flattereth men in their sins.
21. And the Spirit sealet men unto life eternal.
22. But the world bindeth men unto death and despair.
23. The Spirit testifieth of Christ.
24. The world denieth Him, or seeketh to replace Him with idols.
25. For the Spirit is holy, but the world is profane.
26. The Spirit giveth light to the eyes of the pure.
27. The world blindeth the eyes of the proud.
28. The Spirit declareth, Come out from among them, and be ye separate.
29. But the world declareth, Join us, and none shall judge thee.
30. The Spirit is meek, teaching with patience and longsuffering.
31. The world is loud, teaching with threats and coercion.
32. The Spirit edifieth in love.
33. The world puffeth up in vanity.
34. The Spirit is as living water to the thirsty soul.
35. The world is as salt water, leaving the drinker more parched than before.
36. The Spirit sanctifieth by truth.
37. The world corrupteth by lies.

38. The Spirit quickeneth the dead unto life.
39. The world slayeth the living unto death.

Final Declaration Page

This scroll beareth two edges:

The Core Scroll (1–500) — the sharp edge, forged without redundancy, cutting clean between the Voice of the Spirit and the Voice of the World.

The Echo of Witness (501–700) — the reverberating edge, striking again and again, sealing the testimony by repetition, that none may claim ignorance nor escape the sound.

Together, they form a twofold witness:
a sword to divide truth from lies, and a trumpet to echo in the ears of all nations.

It is written, it is declared, it is sealed:

The Spirit is life, truth, and holiness.

The world is death, deception, and corruption.

The choice remaineth before all — Spirit or world, Christ or Babylon, life or death.

Let this scroll stand as both lamp and blade, a covenant witness in this generation.
