

THE DONKEY SPEAKS

A 2–3 Minute Prophetic Scroll to the Elders of Israel

1. Hear this, O men who call yourselves elders:

You sit in high seats, but the fear of TMH sits low in your bones.

You carry titles the heavens never handed you.

You demand honor while forgetting the One who gives breath.

2. Before any man crowned himself “leader,”

TMH spoke through obedience.

And when obedience died in the leaders,

He opened the mouth of a donkey to shame them.

3. Balaam saw nothing.

The beast saw everything.

This is the parable of this generation’s elders.

4. The Donkey was not wise.

The Donkey was not trained.

The Donkey was simply obedient — and obedience will always outrank position.

5. For the Angel stands again in the narrow path,

sword drawn, flame unsheathed,

waiting for the men who claimed authority
but lost their discernment.

6. You call yourselves elders,
but cannot see the Angel before you.

You boast of knowledge,
yet stumble over obedience.

7. When the so-called leaders refuse to bow, TMH will raise the ones they consider beneath them —
the overlooked, the quiet, the unconventional, the Donkeys of this age —
and place His word in their mouth.

8. Not to entertain.

Not to argue.

But to deliver a warning
the “elders” were too proud to hear.

9. So hear the Word of TMH:

If you claim eldership but reject correction,
you walk toward a sword you cannot see.

If you claim authority but refuse humility,
you lead Israel into a ditch.

If you claim wisdom but have no fear,

your council is darkness.

10. But blessed is the man who trembles
when the Donkey speaks,
for he discerns the pattern of heaven.
He knows TMH is not exposing him —
He is rescuing him.

11. Today the Donkey speaks again.
Not because the Donkey is great,
but because the elders stopped listening.

12. Let every man examine his mantle.
Let every leader test his fruit.
Let every voice be weighed in the sanctuary scales.
For the Angel still stands in the path,
and the sword has not moved.

ENDING DECREE

He that hath ears, let him hear:
When heaven opens the mouth of the lowly,
it is because the high forgot their fear.
Receive this word,
for the Donkey speaks
to save you from the blade.
