

TEACHING MANTLE

The Mantle of Instruction and Understanding

Spirit Utterance

The teacher turns knowledge into understanding.

The teacher illuminates what was hidden.

The teacher does not merely give answers.

The teacher equips others to find truth.

The greatest teacher is not the one who speaks the most.

The greatest teacher is the one who helps others see.

Mantle Function

The Teaching Mantle is called to:

Teach

Explain

Instruct

Clarify

Equip

Guide learning

Build understanding

The teacher helps transform information into wisdom.

The teacher strengthens foundations so others may stand securely.

Primary Fruit

Patience

Growth takes time.

Questions take time.

Understanding takes time.

A teacher without patience becomes frustrated with the learner.

Patience allows instruction to mature.

 Secondary Fruit

 Gentleness

Truth delivered harshly is often rejected.

Gentleness creates an environment where learning can flourish.

The teacher corrects without crushing.

The teacher guides without controlling.

 Hidden Fruit

 Joy

This is the fruit often overlooked.

A teacher who has lost joy becomes mechanical.

Joy keeps learning alive.

Joy inspires curiosity.

Joy turns instruction into discovery.

The teacher cultivates understanding.

TRAINING EXERCISE

Choose one lesson you have learned recently.

Explain it to someone else.

Use simple language.

Use examples.

Use patience.

At the end, ask them to explain it back to you.

A teacher is not measured by how much they know.

A teacher is measured by how much understanding they help create.
