

The Crown Mantle Scroll

The Mind of Christ

The Governing Mantle

Before there is a prophet, there must be obedience.

Before there is a priest, there must be humility.

Before there is a king, there must be self-government.

Before there is a teacher, there must be understanding.

Before there is a warrior, there must be discipline.

Before there is a scribe, there must be truth.

Every mantle finds its proper order beneath the Crown Mantle.

The Crown Mantle is not a title.

The Crown Mantle is not a position.

The Crown Mantle is not a rank.

The Crown Mantle is the Mind of Christ governing every other function.

For many seek mantles before they seek transformation.

Many seek authority before they seek obedience.

Many seek purpose before they seek submission.

Yet the ancient pattern has always remained the same.

The vessel must first be governed before it can be entrusted.

The Mind That Was In Christ

Yahshua did not come seeking His own glory.

He came to do the will of the Father.

He taught what the Father gave Him.

He spoke what the Father commanded Him.

He served when others desired to be served.

He washed feet when others desired thrones.

He humbled Himself when others sought honor.

Therefore the Crown Mantle teaches that true greatness begins with submission.

The highest throne in the Kingdom is built upon the lowest humility.

The greatest leader becomes the greatest servant.

The greatest teacher remains teachable.

The greatest warrior remains disciplined.

The greatest king remains submitted.

The Crown Mantle governs them all.

For the Mind of Christ is not self-exaltation.

The Mind of Christ is perfect alignment with the will of Elohim.

Bible Witness

"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." — Philippians 2:5

"He humbled himself, and became obedient unto death." — Philippians 2:8

"The Son can do nothing of himself." — John 5:19

Book of Mormon Witness

"I am in the Father, and the Father in me." — 3 Nephi 11:27

"I have glorified the Father in taking upon me the sins of the world." — 3 Nephi 11:11

Thus both sticks testify that Christ walked in perfect submission to the Father.

The Crown Above Every Mantle

Without the Mind of Christ:

The Prophet becomes prideful.

The Priest becomes ritualistic.

The King becomes tyrannical.

The Teacher becomes puffed up.

The Servant becomes resentful.

The Apostle becomes ambitious.

The Watchman becomes fearful.

The Judge becomes corrupt.

The Shepherd becomes negligent.

The Healer becomes self-glorifying.

The Warrior becomes destructive.

The Scribe becomes vain.

A mantle without the Mind of Christ becomes distorted.

Function remains.

Life departs.

The form survives.

The Spirit withdraws.

Therefore the Crown Mantle sits above all twelve mantles.

Not to dominate them.

To govern them.

For every function must remain submitted to Christ.

Self-Government Before Kingdom Government

Many desire to govern cities.

Yet cannot govern their thoughts.

Many desire to lead others.

Yet cannot lead themselves.

Many desire authority.

Yet flee responsibility.

The Crown Mantle teaches that the first kingdom a man must govern is himself.

His thoughts.

His words.

His emotions.

His desires.

His habits.

His choices.

For if a man cannot rule his own spirit, how shall he rule anything entrusted to him?

Bible Witness

"He that ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city." — Proverbs 16:32

Book of Mormon Witness

"Bridle all your passions." — Alma 38:12

The Crown Mantle begins within.

Before it is seen without.

Mission Application

A person walking in the Crown Mantle seeks:

- Wisdom before recognition.
- Obedience before authority.
- Service before position.
- Truth before popularity.
- Responsibility before privilege.
- Christ before self.

The Crown Mantle is not reserved for leaders.

It governs every disciple.

Every prophet.

Every priest.

Every king.

Every teacher.

Every servant.

Every witness.

Every traveler.

Every mantle.

Closing Charge

Seek not first a mantle.

Seek first the Mind of Christ.

Seek not first authority.

Seek first obedience.

Seek not first position.

Seek first transformation.

Let Christ govern your thoughts.

Let Christ govern your words.

Let Christ govern your actions.

Let Christ govern your purpose.

For the Crown Mantle is the foundation beneath every calling and the government above every function.

And when the Mind of Christ rules the heart, every mantle finds its proper place.

"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."
