

THE HIDDEN WORKER

You have labored.

You have served.

You have endured.

You have carried burdens that few people saw.

You have worked in hidden places.

But before continuing, a question must be answered.

Have you entered covenant?

Not tradition.

Not membership.

Not attendance.

Not association.

Covenant.

Have you repented for the remission of your sins?

Have you entered the waters?

Have you personally responded to the call of TMH?

Or have you assumed that the works around you were the same as covenant?

Many build.

Many serve.

Many labor.

Yet labor and covenant are not the same thing.

Before identifying your mission...

Before discovering your mantle...

Before recognizing the functions operating within your life...

Examine your foundation.

Have you entered correctly?

If the answer is uncertain, return to the Covenant Gate.

If the answer is yes, continue.

For the Hidden Worker does not begin by acquiring a mantle.

The Hidden Worker begins by recognizing what TMH has already been producing through obedience.

Now ask yourself:

Which mission most resembles your journey?

For your mission will reveal your mantle.

And your mantle will reveal the functions that have already been at work.
